Havana, Cuba

Cohiba, Fidel Castros preferred brand, was created in 1966 as Havanas premier brand for diplomatic purposes.

Since 1982, it was offered to the public in three sizes: Lanceros, Coronas Especiales and Panetelas. In 1989, three more sizes were added to complete the classic line namely: Espléndidos, Robustos and Exquisitos.

In 1992, the following five sizes were further made in order to commemorate the 500th anniversary of the discovery of Cuba in 1492: Siglo I, II, III, IV and V.

MONTECRISTO

In 1935, Alonso Menendez purchased the Particulares cigar factory in Cuba with hopes of creating a new premium cigar brand. During this time, it was common among torcedores (cigar rollers) to have the famous Alexandre Dumas novel "The Count of Monte Cristo" read by a lector on the cigar rolling floor. Inspired by this tradition, Menendez gave life to one of the most well know cigar brands today - Montecristo.

TRINIDAD

Trinidad is named after the beautiful 16th Century city of La Santísima Trinidad (The Holy Trinity), listed by UNESCO as a World Heritage Site.

Trinidad dates back to 1969 but for many years, like Cohiba, it was made only for gifts to foreign diplomats. Not until 1998 was it released for general sale and then only in small quantities.

At the start there was only one size of Trinidad: Fundadores. In 2003 three more sizes, the Reyes, the Coloniales and the Robusto Extra, were added to the range.

Shakespeare's most famous theatrical work, Romeo & Juliet, has captured imaginations and served as global inspiration for over 500 years. Inocencio Alvarez and Manin Garcia used this inspiration to establish Romeo y Julieta in 1875 in Cuba.

After a number of years producing highly respected, top quality cigars, Alvarez and Garcia's dedication to the brand paid off. Romeo y Julieta earned numerous gold medals at tasting exhibitions between 1885 and 1890; propelling the brand to increased notoriety around Cuba and the rest of the world.

QUAI D'ORSAY

The Quai D'Orsay was originally created in order to meet the refined taste of French gastronomy, wines and lifestyle of the French market. The brand was created in the early 1970's and its name was taken from a well known street in Paris beside the River Seine.

All Quai d'Orsay sizes are made with a light tasting blend of filler and binder leaves from the Vuelta Abajo zone with a distinctive Blend –Ligada – smooth and subtle, that of pastry, honey notes and pleasant wood.

Every Cuaba is made in the distinctive shape known as double figurado, the style that at the end of the 19th Century was all the rage for Habanos. A century later, in 1996, this rich tradition was revived at the Romeo y Julieta factory.

Double figurados are at the pinnacle of the cigar maker's art and for this alone they merit a place in every cigar enthusiast's collection.

In 1843, a German banker by the name of Hermann Dietrich Upmann landed in Havana. He was there to set up a business for a German import/export company. Upmann saw potential. Along with establishing a banking business catering to tobacco dealers and manufacturers, Upmann bought a local cigar factory and the first 'H. Upmann' cigar brand was born in 1844. Hermann worked until 1890 and was succeeded by his nephew, Heinrich.

The Quintero cigar brand was created as Quintero y Hermanos or Quintero and Brothers, when Agustin Quintero and his four brothers opened a small cigar factory in the town of Cienfuegos, Cuba in 1924 and began producing a handmade cigar. Cienfuegos, a city on the southern coast of Cuba, is located near the Vuelta Arriba of the Remedios tobacco growing region, and the brand is one of the few Cuban cigar brands not born in the heartland of the prime tobacco growing region of Vuelta Abajo.

For many generations, the name Hoyo de Monterrey has been synonymous with cigar smoking perfection, tradition, and premium quality. It's one of the oldest Cuban heritage cigar brands in existence and remains one of the most sought-after smokes on the planet. Today there are two different versions of Hoyo de Monterrey cigars, one being the Cuban and the other Honduran. While these two brands are produced in different countries, they both share the same historical origins.

Jose L. Piedra is a popular brand for domestic consumption in Cuba. Apart from the original six smaller Jose L. Piedra cigars which are machine-made, this Jose L. Piedra brand started producing a new full range of hand-made sizes (which have recently become unavailable). Made in the regional factory in Santa Clara, Cuba, this Jose L. Piedra brand continues to have very competitive pricing. Jose L. Piedra brand cigars are considered to have a mild-to-medium body with strong flavours.

HABANA · CUBA

One of the biggest cigar brands to originate from Cuba; Partagas cigars are recognised by millions worldwide for their immaculately presented, full flavoured habanos, filled with an intensity of aromas. Since the brand was formed in 1845, success has coincided. But along the way to global recognition and a loyal fan base, scandal and drama has erupted. Particularly for its founder, Don Jaime Partagas. This Cuban Cigars tale is the kind of the stuff Hollywood stories are made of.

HABANA · CUBA

This smaller Cuban brand is known for its power, and its namesake Simon Bolivar—the liberator of South America—makes for a fitting image. Created in 1902, the brand once had a vast array of sizes which have been whittled down to only a few. The Belicoso Fino has long been prized by those who truly love a strong smoke.

PUNCH

The Punch brand was first registered in 1840 by German named Stockmann and named for the European puppet show character, Mr. Punch (not the magazine, which was created a year later). The brand quickly became a success, especially in Great Britain. The Cuban Punch remains very popular in the other parts of the world, with aficionados constantly searching for the famed Churchill and Double Corona sizes. The Honduran versions are one of America's most loved cigars with the Punch Elite, Rare Corojo, and Grand Cru lines being a mainstay in brick and mortar stores. In these two great brands, the Punch legacy lives on even today.

The original name of the San Cristóbal de la Habana brand was the name given to the city of Havana in 1519. This brand was launched in 1999 as a tribute to the city's long history at the dawn of the new millennium.

The brand placed on the market for the first time with a range of four vitolas, whose names correspond to the fortresses located in the city, built between the 16th and 18th centuries by the Spaniards to defend the city from possible aggressions: El Morro, La Fuerza, La Punta and El Príncipe.

The Juan Lopez brand has origins that go back to 19th century Cuba. The brand was created in 1876 by Juan Lopez Serra (known as Juan Lopez Diaz). The brand was eventually passed to his heirs and then sold to Sociedad Cosme Del Peso y Cia in 1918. When the Cuban Revolution occurred and Cuba's cigar business was nationalized, the brand was taken over by the Cuban government. It would eventually become a part of the Habanos SA portfolio

Alejandro Robaina was renowned by cigar aficionados everywhere as one of the best tobacco farmers in the famed Vuelta Abajo of Cuba. Each year, 80% of Don Alejandro's tobacco harvest was deemed fit for use as wrapper leaf for Cuban cigars (compared to only around 35% for other plantations). In 1997, Habanos SA honored him by launching a new line of cigars bearing the name of his famous farmland. Vegas Robaina cigars, made in Havana at the former H. Upmann factory, have quickly become popular among cigar aficionados
